Most people don't realize that most abortions are unwanted or coerced, or that forced abortions happen close to home. This heartbreak is often followed by psychological and physical injuries that traumatize, maim and even kill women. Abortion endangers the rights and lives of both the unborn and women.

You can help raise awareness and foster compassion, hope, help and healing. Use these ads in church bulletins, newsletters, newspapers and other publications in print and online.

If most abortions involve coercion, why are we still calling it a choice?

- 84% were not adequately informed before abortion,
- 64% were pressured by others to abort,
- 52% felt rushed and 54% felt unsure, yet ...
- 67% received no counseling before abortion, and
- 79% were not told of alternatives.

It wasn't about authentic choice, but healing is possible.

Forced Abortion in America?

Studies show that in America, most abortions are unwanted or coerced, and if a woman refuses to abort, coercion can escalate to violence. Homicide is the leading killer of pregnant women. Threats can range from verbal or physical abuse to loss of home, income, family and more.

Teens and women of all ages have been forcibly restrained, beaten and tortured, or even held hostage or taken to the clinic at gunpoint. Women have been evicted, thrown from a bridge, stuffed in car trunks or even buried alive. Some were forcibly drugged or injected to force a miscarriage.

Clinics rarely screen for coercion. Molesters pose as parents. Rapists use repeat abortions to conceal assaults. Authorities and support networks may decide for her and blackmail, coerce or force her. Women have been punished or killed for resisting.

After abortion, 65% suffer trauma. Women's rate of death from all causes is nearly 4 times higher. Suicide rates are 6 times higher. Society often denies them even the right to grieve the loss of their child.
